30-MINUTE SERVICE

Huge 'Birds' To Ply Run

By GORDON BELL, Times Business Editor

A downtown-to-downtown Victoria-Vancouver helicopter service will begin late next year, Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. announced today.

The company plans to raise $3,000,000 early next year for three fully-instrumented, all-weather helicopters, president Glenn W. MacPherson said.

The fare will be $11 one way "or perhaps more," said Mr. MacPherson.

Either Boeing Vertol 107s or Sikorsky S-61s, both 25-28 passenger craft, will be used.

The inter-city service would be a 30-minute run on a schedule "equal to or better" than that provided by Trans-Canada Airlines.

Landing facilities in Victoria would be no problem, the Okanagan president said. While he would prefer a ground landing area at Victoria there are several persons interested in building a combined parking garage-heliport structure.

In Vancouver the city planning department, Department of Transport officials and Okanagan engineering staff have been surveying sites in the Coal Harbor area and negotiating with several firms interested in putting up a structure which would combine car parking, marina, restaurant, and heliport facilities.

TCA Has No Plans to Drop Service

Pacific Western Airlines, which is also contemplating seeking a franchise for the Victoria-Vancouver run, remains skeptical of the possibility of early helicopter service between the two cities.

PWA managing director D. D. McLaren said his firm believes' helicopters are much farther away than Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. estimates."

PWA is still analyzing the air route economics, particularly in the light of the effect the government ferries have had on TCA which has lost an estimated 40 per cent of its passengers to the ferries.

As a spokesman of his government told this reporter in London recently, Prime Minister Macmillan is deeply worried by the division of Europe between the two giant trading blocs, whose developing economic conflicts are likely to have grave political results.

Mr. Macmillan, doubtless the ablest statesman of the Western world, has good reason for worry.

So has Dr. Adenauer, chancellor of West Germany and great stone face of Europe, though he knows much less about economics than Mr. Macmillan. As Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and real economic boss of Germany, said in a statement already published here, the present division of Europe is "grotesque" and the union of the Six and the Seven essential.

Why, then, have Britain and its partner nations of the Seven declined to join the booming Common Market controlled by Germany and France? For three main reasons, all of them apparently intractable but in fact all negotiable.

In the first place, Britain refused to sign the Treaty of Rome which set up the Common Market of the Six, because this instrument, in its preamble, looked forward hopefully (perhaps unrealistic-

WISBECH, Eng.—A boy without pink hair is a boy without a girl friend in this country town in Cambridgeshire.

The teen-age rage caught on last week when barber Aubrey Tite started spraying on the pink at $5 6d (75 cents) a shot.

"At first the girls laughed but now they won't go out with any boy who hasn't got pink hair," said David Grance, 18.

He said he expected the craze to sweep right through Britain once the advantages are known.

"You see," said David, "it makes you stand out in a crowd."

Barber Tite explained the spray needs to be applied once every two weeks to retain the pink look.

"The only trouble," he said, "is that on chaps with dark hair the solution tends to turn their hair scarlet."

HOLLYWOOD—After travelling in a horse-drawn wagon 4,000 miles from New Brunswick to Hollywood, Mrs. Vivian Larsen and her daughter finally met Walt Disney on Monday.

Mrs. Larsen, 54, of Moncton, N.B., and Sandra, 15, had been travelling since July 24, 1959.

Monday, Mrs. Larsen said, she was to have told Disney her "secret idea for a great movie"—but their meeting did not work out that way.

Disney said he was too busy to talk to her for more than a few minutes. Mrs. Larsen said, and asked her to submit her ideas in writing to protect herself and the studio.

KANSAS CITY—A night watchman spotted three shadowy figures atop a two-storey office building Sunday night and telephoned police.

Five patrol cars and a fire truck with an aerial ladder went to the scene.

"We surrounded the building," said patrolman Adolph Belt Jr.

"We had no way of getting on the roof other than with the fire truck ladder. We guarded all the exits, got on the roof, surrounded the men at gunpoint, and discovered they were putting up a Santa Claus."

LONDON—The Royal Mint what pub frequenters Monday came out for plastic sidered a humane and civilized gesture.

But Home Secretary Richard A. Butler told the House of Commons Monday night that nothing was settled. He said there had been a flood of protests from housewives and saloon keepers.

Housewives were objecting that the man of the house would never get home for Sunday lunch. And the saloon keepers did not want the extra work.

TORONTO—A proposal to change the name of the Canadian Temperance Federation to avoid the ambiguity and emotional explosiveness which may go with the word temperance, may be tabled at the annual convention which opened here Monday.

The Manitoba unit, which calls itself the Alcohol Education Service, faces constitutional difficulties in a bid to spread its new name.

Shock Treatment Pays Off

2 Victoria Daily Times TUES. NOV. 29, 1960

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver newspaper says the only doctor in the remote Vancouver Island settlement of Tofino refused treatment to a man with a broken neck and to a pregnant woman in order to stress the need for more federal assistance in caring for indigent native Indians.

"I had to make a stand," the newspaper quotes Dr. McDiarmid. "These two people were not in need of immediate medical attention. If there was danger of them losing their lives, I would have seen them."

The doctor said he works seven days a week tending the hospital in Tofino, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, treating 1,100 Indians and 1,300 normal minimum fees. He had whites in Tofino, Ucluelet and the small reservations dotting the area.

He said he doesn't want more money for himself, but enough for an assistant so the whole community will benefit, the paper says.

This silver-and-gold trophy, presented as an annual award at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair for the World Championship in Tobacco, has been created for Imperial Tobacco Company by Birks. It's a magnificent example of Canadian design and craftsmanship.

As World Champion Herman Atkins told Gil Christy:

"I've been growing tobacco for 35 years. In that time, Imperial Tobacco has always bought my best grades. Last season, the makers of Player's bought over 75 percent of my entire crop."

Here's further proof that "It's the tobacco that counts." That's why Player's are the mildest, best-tasting cigarette.

'U.S. Must Not Yield Nuclear Arms Control'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator J. William Fulbright says he feels it is important for the United States to consult with its allies before any firing of nuclear weapons on allied territory, but he doesn't think the Americans need to yield exclusive control over the nuclear warheads.

"I think that Canada, Britain and other countries — perhaps with the exception of France — would be satisfied with an agreement on prior consultation before any firings take place," the Arkansas Democrat said in an interview Monday.

Seas Turn Choppy For New Loan Bill

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — Bill C-40, an act providing for government-guaranteed loans to small businesses, has had unusually smooth sailing through the Commons, but Monday night its legislative voyage turned choppy.

The House debated long and lustily a Liberal amendment calling for recognition of credit unions and caisses populaires as approved lenders, along with chartered banks. The dispute started at 8:30 p.m. and was still going strong when the House adjourned at 10 p.m.

The question will have to remain unresolved for another day at least. Today, the Commons will be occupied with a foreign affairs debate.

The government bill to help small businesses get loans up to $25,000 for modernizing their plant and equipment received second reading Monday — approval in principle — without dissent from any quarter.

The amendment by Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier) during clause-by-clause study in committee of the whole House touched off a heated exchange during which opposition speakers accused the government of discriminating against credit unions — called caisses populaires in Quebec.

Finance Minister Fleming, sponsor of the measure — which it is hoped will help relieve unemployment — accused the opposition of making "misleading imputations."

Mr. Fleming said credit unions are provincial institutions and the interest rates they charge are not regulated by Parliament. Banks, on the other hand, are under Parliament's thumb.

Howard Caught Far Off Base

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) got caught Monday on the ground that it is a competitor.

He asked for a progress report on conciliation into the strike of grain handlers at Vancouver. Labor Minister Starr breezily reported that the strike had been settled Friday night.

A bill to protect salmon fisheries on the Fraser was introduced by A. DeB. McPhillips (PC-Victoria).

He said its purpose is "to rule the power barons off the Fraser River."

The Commons was informed the Board of Broadcast Governors is satisfied radio station CKLN at Nelson, B.C., has not run afoul of the Broadcasting Act and radio regulations.

The statement was made by Marcel Lambert (PC, Edmonton West), parliamentary secretary to Revenue Minister Nolan who reports to Parliament on broadcasting matters.

The board, after reviewing all the correspondence, is satisfied that there has been no breach of the Broadcasting Act or of the radio broadcasting stations regulations in this case," Mr. Lambert said.

H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) had asked for the investigation Nov. 18. He told the Commons a local radio station in Kootenay West, owned by a local daily paper, has denied the use of its facilities for advertising to an elect John Kennedy is looking over as a possible state secretary.

"I know the present Conservative government in Britain is satisfied with such a consultation arrangement and I would be very much surprised if this did not satisfy the Canadians," Fulbright said.

PM WANTS CONTROL

Fulbright was asked to comment on Ottawa dispatches quoting Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying Canada would not consider placing American nuclear weapons on Canadian territory without joint Canadian control over the warheads, and that he would make no decision on obtaining such weapons while disarmament negotiations are under way.

"I don't see any early change in our legislation," Fulbright said. "We would require a change in laws to turn over control of such weapons. I don't think it would be wise to spread such control around."

"I think it would be better for all our allies to work on the basis of prior consultation. This seems reasonable. Even the Russians don't want to spread control over their weapons inside the Communist camp. They want to limit proliferation."

Asked how consultation would work in the event of an emergency, Fulbright replied:

"Well, of course, consultation would take place if there is time . . . But if there is a real emergency, there might not be any time for consultation. Firings would have to take place immediately. The allies know that."

CONCERN

The Diefenbaker statement coupled with reports of opinion expressed by some Canadian writers led the Washington Post to print a long editorial Monday, expressing concern over the possible growth of neutralism in Canada.

"Whether or not to arm with nuclear weapons is assuredly a sovereign decision for Canada to make," the Post said. "Joint control of such weapons, in the event that Canada should elect to adopt them for mutual defense, seems a reasonable course."

"But the refusal to arm with nuclear weapons would not make Canada one bit less vulnerable or continental defense any less a joint concern. Nor would an unreal withdrawal from the world into neutralism change the fact that Canada is inescapably involved in the cold war by reason not only of geography but also of free and democratic institutions."

The finance minister accused Mr. Argue of making "rash and reckless" statements.

Since the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act was enacted five years ago, providing for loans by either banks or credit unions, not one cause populaire had made a guaranteed loan. Only two credit unions, both in British Columbia, had made such loans.

Decision Pending

FOR SOME TIME THE CANADIAN public—and apparently the Canadian Government—has been far from clear on the exact conditions under which this country would receive and maintain atomic warheads for the Bomarc missile. Clarification of the point was brought a step nearer with Mr. Diefenbaker's statement of last week that "we shall not consider nuclear weapons until we have equality of control, a joint control over them."

This seems to approximate the situation in Britain, where American nuclear arms are a part of the island's armaments, with dual control of their use.

But for Canada the question so far has been academic. And if Defence Minister Harkness hopes materialized, it would remain so.

The progression of events leading to an eventual decision on nuclear arms was set in motion when Canada, under the NORAD treaty, agreed to co-operate with the United States in continental defence of North America. One result of this was the decision to establish two Bomarc sites, one in Ontario and the other in Quebec, which in conjunction with the radar detection lines would serve to defend the eastern American industrial complex.

The Bomarc plan, although harassed by technical problems, went ahead on the assumption that the missiles would carry nuclear warheads, since only these would be properly effective against invading bombers. It will be noted that bombers were the intended targets, even though offensive weapons are in a period of transition from manned aircraft to stratospheric missiles. In any case there was never any denial by the Canadian Government that nuclear warheads would be used.

There are many Canadians, of course, and Mr. Lester Pearson is among them, who hold that Canada should not enter the nuclear weapon field at all, but concentrate on development of a mobile, heavily armed conventional force which still is needed for defence of the West. The argument is that the United States has enough nuclear deterrents for all the West, and Canada cannot afford the immense investment needed for participation in this type of defence on any adequate basis.

This argument, of course, does not bear directly on the question of Canada's use of nuclear arms produced in the United States and placed at our disposal. Canadians will approve Mr. Diefenbaker's insistence that such use must be on a joint basis; no nuclear missile should be launched from Canadian soil without the independent approval of the Canadian Government.

Mr. Harkness hopefully has suggested an alternative to making a firm decision on nuclear policy. He looks to success in world disarmament negotiations to obviate any need for nuclear defence by Canada. Has he any valid grounds for assuming that this development is near enough to make it possible to postpone or avoid a decision on Bomarc warheads? There has been no official suggestion of this in any quarter.

Indeed, no negotiation of any sort can take place until Mr. Kennedy has taken over the reins in Washington and attempted to overcome the stalemate that has existed ever since the summit debacle in Paris last summer. Long before any such negotiation can reach a successful conclusion, Ottawa will have to declare itself on the nuclear question. It will not be an easy decision, but it cannot be long deferred.

Liberals Sight on Ottawa

LIBERALS IN ESQUIMALT-Saanich are first in the field with a candidate for the forthcoming by-election—and they would appear to have nominated a strong entry in Capt. David Groos, DSC.

While new to politics, "Davie" Groos is well-known to this community by virtue of his early schooling in Saanich and subsequent outstanding war record. As a young destroyer captain in World War II, he won a Distinguished Service Cross and two mentions in dispatches. In post-war years he served Canada in Washington, D.C., and Ottawa, and latterly was officer commanding HMCS Venture, the cadet-training centre at Esquimalt.

In these posts, Capt. Groos has demonstrated qualities which should stand him in good stead as a politician: a trained and incisive mind, pleasing personality, and a knack for "getting along with people."

When he will be called to submit his qualifications to the electorate remains a matter of doubt at the moment. Mr. Diefenbaker is bound to call the by-election before next May—unless he decides to go to the country in a general election. A late spring by-election seems most likely.

Whatever the date, the Liberal party is pledged to an all-out effort to place "a voice of the West" in the House at Ottawa. In nominating David Groos they have taken a firm first step along this path.

Sobering View on Housing

MRS. DAVID B. MANSUR, Toronto business consultant who once headed Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, has introduced a sobering note into discussion of the impetus home construction can give Canada's campaign against unemployment.

He says that with 300,000 housing units built in the last two years, there are too many houses for potential buyers.

The Greater Victoria situation illustrates the point. Up to a few months ago it was usual for 10 or 15 new houses to be on the market at any one time, awaiting buyers. Within the last few months, the number of new houses looking for purchasers has run from 60 to 70.

Not that there is any shortage of Canadians, or Victorians, who would like newer houses than they have at present. Their problem, in most cases, is finding the money for them. The market has sagged, it seems, not altogether from a superfluity of dwellings, but also from a shrinkage in those who can or will buy.

New housing is needed in Victoria if the surveys on urban renewal are as good an index as they appear to be. In the city about 13 per cent of all dwellings are assessed at $2,200 apiece or less. Houses with that valuation are, for the most part, substandard. Many of them will have to be demolished if urban renewal is to proceed. But before they are torn down, accommodation must be found for their occupants.

The fact that, in this community, the number of new, vacant premises has risen at least fivefold in recent months indicates that accelerated new construction is not in itself the answer. Purchase price and financing seem to be the important considerations.

Police and Fire Ambulance

MAYOR SCURRAH HAS MADE the gratifying announcement that next year's draft civic budget will contain an item for an ambulance to be manned by police and fire departments. This should provide appropriate equipment for citizens needing the special facilities it will furnish on runs to the hospital.

The ambulance should, of course, be on hand for emergency use only and should not be assumed by the public to be a form of free conveyance for anyone who requires transfer from home to hospital in the course of an ordinary illness.

Provided the vote remains in the budget after the estimates' committee has completed its pruning, it might be wise for the council to decide if the ambulance service is to be restricted to the city or is to be extended to outside municipalities with the latter sharing costs. Oak Bay now possesses a vehicle—provided, incidentally, by the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club—which it has found satisfactory. Saanich has expressed concern over the inadequacies of its equipment and Esquimalt apparently has nothing suitable.

At the present time there is a high degree of co-operation between Victoria and its neighbours in both police and fire departments. If an ambulance is not required full time and all day by the city, it seems reasonable to suggest that it be shared by the neighbors, with them helping to meet costs of purchase, maintenance and operation.

FROM LONDON

An Enduring Feature of the Current Scene

ANY political movement can be analyzed in three ways: in terms of its constitution, in terms of its doctrines and beliefs, or in terms of its sociological composition. Commentators on the crisis of the Labor movement have concentrated on the first two approaches. A sociological analysis suggests that Labor's troubles are much more fundamental.

The truth is, surely, that the Labor Party consists of four incongruous social groups, divided by wide gulfs of mutual incomprehension, who have been united in the past only by their common belief in a myth which is now exploded, and who now have little in common save their memories of past bickering.

The four groups can be roughly described as follows (with the usual reservation that not everyone fits neatly into one and only one group):

1. The Trade Unionists, who are working class, anti-intellectual, tough-minded, pragmatic, oriented towards economic issues, and inclined towards centralization.

2. The Non-Conformists, who are working class, tender-minded doctrinaires, oriented towards moral issues, and basically suspicious of Southeast England in general and SW 1 in particular.

3. The Idealists, who are middle class, tender-minded, libertarian, and largely oriented towards foreign, colonial and defence issues.

4. The Planners, who are middle class, intellectual, oriented towards economic issues, and tender-minded up to the point where this would interfere with the occasional need to order people about in the name of efficiency.

Increased Exports

That these people are incongruous in their backgrounds and their basic social and political attitudes is obvious. What held them together in the past was simply that they all subscribed to the myth of Social Democracy.

They all believed, that is (or at least they all were able to say that they believed), that there was a third way of organizing society, which was neither capitalist nor communist but something in between, combining the virtues of political freedom and a socialized economy.

Until a few years ago, however these groups differed in their immediate policies; they could look upon each other as comrades working towards the same eventual aim.

Policy-making in the Labor Party was always a matter of dispute and compromise, but given this assumption of fundamental agreement it was usually possible for the Planners (e.g. Attlee, Cripps, Dalton, and Gaitskell) to take the lead. Simplifying somewhat, the Planners can be said to have combined with the trade unionists to ensure that Labor policies were realistic and with the Non-Conformists and Idealists to ensure that they were progressive.

This whole alliance began to totter when it became apparent that the one important belief that the four groups had in common was no more than a pipe dream.

To the perceptive this was clear by 1949, when the "Butskell period" really began; to others it was made clear by the Bevanite revolt of 1951; and the less sophisticated members of the party have gradually woken up to it in the course of the past nine years.

Growth Rate

The real choice is, in fact, as the extreme Left and the extreme Right have always maintained, between communism and free enterprise. Various kinds of government intervention are possible within a free-enterprise system, as are various policies of social welfare, but all of them are limited by the overriding need not to destroy the incentives which make the system work.

The Labor Party is a little more radical than the Liberals or Conservatives about these matters, but it would not be plausible to assert that any particular set of controls or welfare policies would convert the system into something called "Socialist free enterprise."

This being now evident, the myth of Social Democracy can no longer serve as a unifying factor in the Labor Party. And since there is no other unifying factor of any importance, it has been difficult for some years to see how the party could avoid fragmentation.

The appeal "We are all Socialists, comrades" has been replaced in the last year or two by the appeal "We all want to see Labor back in power," but this is much less effective.

The truth is that, of the four groups mentioned, only the Planners have any direct and powerful incentive to get back into power.

In opposition the Planners are important, but not so the other three groups. The trade unions are able to play pressure politics almost as effectively with a Conservative government as with a Labor government, and they can hardly be blamed if they give first priority to consolidating their independent position of power.

Trained Manpower

The Non-Conformists and the Idealists thrive in opposition, for they are by nature happiest when free to take up the cudgels on behalf of any individual or minority they consider to be ill-treated.

Nor should the value of this be underrated: if the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, as most of us say we believe, then the whole country is continuously in their debt.

Seen in this light, Labor's prospects for the future appear extremely dim. But this is now becoming apparent to all, and understanding of the factors involved might at least diminish the amount of mutual recrimination.

If this analysis is correct the quarrel over defence policy is simply the occasion and not the cause of the present split between groups whose social attitudes and political aims are fundamentally at variance. Nobody is to be blamed for this situation, and very little can be done about it.

No lasting solution to the problem is likely to come from tinkering with the constitution or compromising on policy. The divisions within the Labor movement are best regarded as an enduring feature of the contemporary scene, like overcrowding on the roads, the hazards of newspaper publishing and anarchy in the Congo.

Divergent Policies

By MAX FREEDMAN

SINCE the United States found itself confronted with a major problem in the outflow of gold, an important debate has been taking place in Washington on the best methods for producing a reasonable balance in the international payments situation. This debate has the most serious consequences for Canada and other nations, since the opposed groups in this controversy are advocating the most divergent policies.

One group is thinking in terms of restriction and discrimination, if only as a limited policy during an emergency, while the other group is thinking of trade expansion to meet the increasing competition in world markets.

A victory for the first group would bring immediate injury to Canada's national interest. Mr. Kennedy will of course be making the basic decisions next year but he will do so against the background of the current debate.

One of the most significant statements in this debate—and most helpful from Canada's point-of-view—has just been made by Mr. Fitzgerald, deputy director for the International Co-operation Administration and long respected as a leading economist in Washington.

Mr. Fitzgerald pointed to the economic development in western Europe, Canada, Japan, New Zealand and Australia, the more developed countries of the free world. While there is great variation between the 18 or 20 countries in this group, their per capita economic growth has averaged 3.3 per cent per year in the last decade.

Basic Attitudes

During the last decade United States exports to this group of countries have increased from $6.7 billion to 9.5 billion, or 42 per cent, while total exports during the same period have increased 36.5 per cent. The economic interest of the United States in the maintenance of adequate rates of growth in these parts of the world is obvious.

Some Americans have become preoccupied with the increased competition resulting from the economic growth of western Europe and Japan. "I prefer to note simultaneously the expanded market for American production," said Mr. Fitzgerald.

Mr. Fitzgerald then turned to the question of foreign economic aid—constant expenditures in this field have aggravated the balance of payments problem. It is quite clear from his discussion that the United States will be forced to take restrictive measures unless other countries of the free world accept a larger share of the common burden.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that economic assistance from the major free world industrialized countries in six years, 1954 to 1959, totalled about $18 billion of which the United States contributed about two-thirds.

Total external investment in the less developed areas of the world from all sources, while larger now than earlier, currently does not exceed $5 billion a year, an amount sufficient to permit a per capita gross national product increase of 1½ or 2 per cent a year.

Real Choice

The actual growth rate is probably even less. Even at 1% per cent, per capita Gross National Product in the under-developed countries would increase from $100 to $200 a year only after the lapse of 40 years. At the same time, assuming continuation of the rate of growth of the last decade, the United States, the rest of the industrialized free world, and Russia would have absolute per capita GNP increases of $3,918, $2,607, and $4,912, respectively.

Even if the growth rates in these three areas of the world were to be only half those of the last decade, increases would still be such as to create what would be an intolerable disparity.

Mr. Fitzgerald added: "It seems to be clear, therefore, that the more developed countries in the world must provide more resources to less developed areas than has been the case during the last decade. While I believe that all of the industrial countries need to do more, than they are now doing by other countries would seem to be warranted.

"No doubt of course the lesser developed countries should do a great deal more, and must do considerably more, to help themselves than many of them are now doing. We should expect the maximum effort on their part but let us not expect the impossible."

From Our Files

Minority Cause

More and less developed countries may have vast or limited physical resources but no country makes adequate economic progress unless it has a literate and trained population. While bountiful natural resources are most helpful to economic growth, adequately trained human resources are an absolute prerequisite.

The development of such resources is a time-consuming process. It takes longer to develop these than it does to develop physical resources. The lack of trained human resources limits the absorptive capacity of most less developed countries.

Even if the $15 billion odd a year needed to obtain an annual per capita increase in GNP of 5 per cent in less developed countries were available, Mr. Fitzgerald did not believe that currently it could be absorbed because of the shortage of trained human resources.

Thus the expansion in trained manpower must precede any substantial increase in the absorptive capacity of the lesser developed countries. It is in helping the lesser developed countries to develop their manpower resources that the whole free world needs to devote more effort and larger expenditures.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Department of Missing Person

LAST week, according to newspaper reports, the soap opera dropped dead. The institution which had occupied a large amount of afternoon radio time since the "thirties went off the air.

This ought to be a lesson to me. For nigh on 30 years I've been telling myself that I should listen to a soap opera. The phrase has become part of the North American language. It is common currency. Now I'll never know the nuances of its meaning, never having listened.

Maybe I haven't missed much. But it is important that I've missed again. Those misses are beginning to catch up on me.

For the last 20 years I have had in my bookcase a special volume: It's only one of a large number I plan to read some day. It's an important book, well-written according to the critics, and authoritative. Some how or other I've put off starting it since the first quick dabble in the opening pages.

That, I told myself when I acquired the volume, is material I'm going to read. The writer is saying something. It is one of the books a person should read if he has any hopes of being informed.

I'm still saying it 20 years later. It's one of my near misses.

About 10 years ago, on the same shelves, I found a couple of shorthand books and decided it would be a good idea to brush up on the pothooks and curves. Say a half-hour's work an evening and I'd probably pick up the speed I never had when I took the subject. Yes sir, I'll certainly do that. But I needn't start tonight.

A little over a year ago I brought a small skiff down from Shawnigan because the bottom had rotted out of it. My plan was to spend the winter evenings working on the boat, replacing old and unsatisfactory planking with a single sheet of plywood. It wouldn't take much to put it into shape and I'd have a serviceable craft for trout fishing at the lake.

That has been my intention for about 18 months. I guess I'd better get at the job, but maybe I'd better figure the details out a little more before I actually start work.

A few years ago when the boy across the street started to take morning workouts in an effort to whip himself into better shape, I came to the conclusion that it would be smart idea for me to do the same. By getting up half an hour earlier, I could hit the beach, run on the hard sand when the tide was out and put a little more tone into muscles that have been hiding behind too much adipose tissue.

It seems like a good idea still. Only before I start, I'd better pile up a little more sleep. A guy can't get up half an hour earlier to run and expect to do a day's work unless he gets to bed at least half an hour earlier at night.

Still, if I get to bed half an hour earlier at night, I'll either have to sacrifice the half-hour I planned to work on shorthand or cut my reading of the book I intend to master. Either way I won't have the hours available to work on my boat.

It gets complicated. Obviously I'll have to make like that Rodin sculpture and do a little thinking—or at least sit in such a way that I convey the impression of thinking.

Only I can't afford to do that too long. I've already missed soap opera. I could miss reading that book the same way, miss the self-improvement I've planned for myself, miss the use of the boat I haven't got around to mending, miss the fine toning of muscles that require a little roadwork.

All gets a little frightening. Wonder what's on TV tonight?

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

HOW TO TREAT ROAD HOGS

The road hog, in the opinion of S.E., Victoria, is "one of the most annoying things in traffic."

This creature clings assiduously to the centre line of street or highway at a steady 15-20 miles an hour, or at least under the legal limit.

Although there may be painted lines allowing for several lanes of traffic to flow in each direction, the outer lane (or curb lane) always seems to be ignored.

Or if there is just one lane on each side of the centre line, but each lane is still plenty wide enough for two cars to travel in the same direction, "old hog" insists on plodding his pace hugged tightly to the centre line.

S.E. asks:

"Should I give him the horn to make him move to the outside lane, or to pull toward the curb in the case of a single lane?"

"When can I pass him on the right if he does not pull over? Or do I have to sit and take it until he gets out of the traffic?"

In the first place, it is up to the slow driver to allow faster traffic to overtake him by pulling over to the right side of the roadway.

Remember the old motoring slogan, "Keep to the right." It still applies, even if old hog doesn't apply it.

But if the roadway is laned it is permissible for S.E. to pass hog on the right, provided he signals his lane-change and there is no danger to other traffic.

If there is just the one lane in S.E.'s direction, he may honk politely at hog, in which case hog should move over to the right.

Should he still be ignored, S.E. may signal and pull out to the left over the centre line—if on-coming traffic allows—to get past hog.

If none of these remedies apply, which is unlikely, then S.E. will just have to "sit and take it," because the only other permissible way to pass happens to be on the right when there is a one-way street wide enough for at least three lanes of moving traffic.

Send your traffic problems to Times "Traffic Trouble Tips."

BUSINESS VIEWS

Bleak Outlook
For Province's
Mining Output

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Market outlook for B.C. copper, lead and zinc production is looking somewhat gloomy in the immediate future as over-production in the world supply continues to mount. Lead and zinc are particularly hurt by decision of President Eisenhower not to reopen the question of relaxing import quotas.

Orders booked by U.S. copper fabricators fell sharply last month according to latest available figures, to 96,118 tons compared to 117,759 tons in September. Unfilled orders by fabricators at Oct. 31 total 118,241 tons—lowest figure since last May.

London Stock Exchange's "Black Monday" saw prices continue their drop to lowest level of the year with heavy selling.

Situation blamed on general softness of economy led by serious outlook for auto exports and general credit restrictions clamped on by the government.

Largest recorded individual gold sale was reported Monday by Doherty, Roadhouse of Toronto on behalf of an American client. The individual, who obviously has little confidence in his government's ability to protect the U.S. dollar, bought $1 million worth of the Canadian metal.

Canadian Highcrest Oils has called a special shareholders' meeting in Calgary, December 14, to consider acquisition of assets of Tricentral Oils for $1,847,141. Highcrest would issue 8,031,040 shares to pay for the deal.

A new export market for Alberta oil is seen coming up in December. Nominations filed with the Alberta Conservation Board shows Gulf Oil Corporation taking 5,000 b/d for its Toledo, O., refinery and Socony Mobil Oil taking 6,750 b/d for its refinery at Trenton, Mich., near Detroit. These moves more than offset the anticipated decline in oil movement to other Great Lakes refineries next month.

Reflecting decline in the construction industry is the report that Canadian Portland cement shipments are at their lowest level since 1956.

Production for the first nine months of this year dropped to 4,427,920 tons compared to 4,860,557 tons for the same period last year.

Exports for the nine-month period dropped to 130,371 tons compared to 199,936 tons the previous year.

Investment dealers breathed easier Monday as the government announced its refinancing plans. Floating of the $600 million short-term bond issues—only $200 million of which will reach the public—should allow the market to settle down without fears of heavy government long-term financing in the near future.

B.C. Sugar Refining Co. Ltd. annual report shows net profit for the year of $1,786,257 compared to $1,711,436 last year. Net operating profit at $4,205,579 was down from the previous year's $4,376,483, but income from investments showed a gain from $164,352 to $309,752. The report this year consolidates the results from Manitoba Sugar Co. Ltd. and for comparative purposes 1959 figures were adjusted to include that company.

HOW THE EXPERTS SAW GREY CUP FINAL

Rider Defence Stands Out in Dull Encounter

Besides the screaming acclaim from hometown fans, Ottawa Rough Riders have harvested a bushel of unscorched touchdowns from their Grey Cup victory Saturday over Edmonton Eskimos.

Sports writers and columnists who saw the annual football classic at Vancouver generously praised Ottawa's hard-checking defence. They just as generously decided that the Rough Riders could have scored one, two or even three more touchdowns against the Eskimos.

Most of all, however, the country's sports pages were filled later with kind words for Lou Bruce, Gerry Nesbitt, Kaye Vaughan, Fred Robinson, Tom Jones, Bob Simpson and other members of the eastern team for a defensive performance generally conceded to have brought Ottawa the 16-6 victory.

Jack Kinsella wasn't showing hometown partisanship when he wrote in the Ottawa Citizen: "The secret was a tremendous defence, the chief characteristic of the Rider team all season. It kept a much for Eskimos," wrote Baz O'Meara in The Montreal Star.

Said Hal Walker, Toronto Telegram: "This was a ball game of defence and Ottawa won it all the way."

Hal Sigurdson of The Winnipeg Free Press said western observers "had Winnipeg and Edmonton figured as the country's finest defensive teams, but that Ottawa team doesn't take a back seat to either of them."

"That jolting line was too

hal: "Despite the fact they took the lead early, they also passed up scoring opportunities that fairly screamed for successful execution and completion."

There was not much enthusiasm around for the game itself.

Walker figured the Rough Riders "conceivably could have won it by at least two more touchdowns," while Maurice Smith of The Winnipeg Free Press thought a three-touchdown margin would not have been surprising.

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal: "The premature end to the ball control dreariness instigated by Darrell Royal and furthered by Frank Ivy, fore the final whistle and a game of defence and Ottawa coach Frank Clair."

Hal Walker wrote: "The bush league ending to Canada's greatest sports spectacle might have far-reaching implications. It might mean that Vancouver will never host the Grey Cup game again."

Stan Moher, public relations officer with the Eskimos, wrote in the Calgary Albertan

that "Vancouver, it appears, has more than its share of dingy kids and Empire Stadium sure less than enough policing."

Scotty Melville of the Regina Leader-Post gave a western summation to the game: "It was one of those years that come too often, when the Western Conference finalists beat each other to a pulp and the Big Four winners have a great advantage against the spent survivor in the windup game."

MOUNT VIEW TIED

Shutout Streak Ended by Vics

By RON SUDLOW

All good things must come to an end and that's the lesson Larry Johnston learned Monday.

The Mount View netminder was finally beaten on a shot after a string of seven shutouts, but the Views are still slightly favored to claim the Victoria high school senior boys' soccer championship.

Victoria High's Fred Potts was the one who solved the riddle posed by Johnston's netminding, but the best Totems could do was to settle for a 1-1 draw in the opening game in the best-of-three series.

Second game will be played Wednesday at Victoria High grounds, starting at 3:15.

MISSSED CHANCES

Views, holding a slight edge in the run of play in the first half, missed glorious scoring chances when Al Boden and Ray Williams failed from close in.

Potts, pouncing on the ball when it glanced off a defender, sent Vic High ahead in the second half. Roy St. Dennis, neatly beating the two rival fullbacks, squared matters a few minutes later.

On the junior scene, Oak Bay remained undefeated as their season drew to a close by trimming Mount Douglas 3-1.

STREAK ENDED

Brian Ridgeway started things off for the Bays, but Dan Holloway tied the contest briefly as result of a pretty passing play to end Oak Bay's three-game shutout streak.

In the second half, the Bays opened up with Jeff Yuen getting the winner and Bill Wilcox supplying the clincher.

Monday's other game played at Vic West Park saw last-place Esquimalt go through its fifth consecutive scoreless game, losing 10-0 to Mount View.

Bill Falconer scored the contest's lone marker.

As there is no trophy for the league championship, Oak Bay and Victoria High have been named to share the Big Horn Trophy awarded each year to the junior team best displaying sportsmanship.

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Dempsey and his old manager, Jack (Doc) Kearns, appeared today to have ended boxing's most famous feud.

They have been playing the ring's version of the Hatfields and the Coys for 35 years. Kearns "made" Dempsey, earned an estimated $19,000,000 with him over almost a decade and then walked out because Dempsey's wife, movie actress Estelle Taylor, "was trying to advise him."

But they have been brought together recently, with a possible motion picture deal as the wedge, and the relationship is blossoming warm and cordial.

It may be a case where, with Kearns 73 and Dempsey 65, once again they can co-operate for mutual profit. Neither can make a movie without the other being a vital part. The split is being debated but without any acrimony.

Their division of the spoils in the old days was strictly 50-50. For Dempsey was a roughneck refugee from the tank towns and the hobo jungles when Kearns picked him up. Or vice versa.

"I met Dempsey in a saloon in Oakland, Calif., when I was having an argument with one of my fighters, a middle-weight named Vic Hanson," Kearns recalls.

"Hanson was sore because I hadn't taken him to Australia with some of my other fighters and he was just about to punch me around when up steps this rough-looking dark-haired stranger. He says he will flatten Hanson if he does not let me alone. Well, a free-for-all started but Jack and I managed to get out before the cops got there."

It was the beginning of a fabulously productive association, that 1917 brawl. Kearns had been a boxer but long before had decided "to hold some other bum's coat." He was more than the craftiest coat-holder in the business. He taught Dempsey to weave and bob and big Jack's explosive punch did the rest.

Then Along Came Mrs. Dempsey . . .

Two years later, on July 4, 1919, Kearns had piloted Dempsey into a Toledo ring against giant Jess Willard for the heavyweight championship. Dempsey knocked Willard out in the third and they really were on their way.

Until 1925, all went well with the two Jacks. Kearns did the plotting and the talking. Dempsey kept silent and did the punching. Then, however, he caused a minor rift by marrying Miss Taylor over Kearns' protests. The manager wanted him to remain single until he was through fighting.

The break became complete when Kearns felt that Jack's wife was trying to run the show. Losing complete control of Dempsey was a blow to Kearns' pride and when the wall of bitterness between them rose to staggering heights he took his walk.

Dempsey was acting as his own manager when he signed for the first fight with Gene Tunney in 1926. The one in which he was to lose the title. Kearns threatened Dempsey with a lawsuit and the breach grew wider. There were more sub-surface currents at the time of the second Tunney fight.

In later years, Dempsey's career was managed in a solid, business-like manner and he flourished. Kearns, acknowledged king of the managers and the ballyhoo artists, on the other hand, treated money like it was going out of style and he had to get rid of it quickly.

Kearns has estimated that he was "in" on the earning of as much as $40,000,000. For later he managed such as Mickey Walker, Benny Leonard on the latter's comeback, Joey Maxim and Archie Moore.

An attempt was made to bring the two Jacks together a few years ago. They shook hands, however, as if each privately expected to have to count his fingers. Kearns demanded 50 per cent of a motion picture deal then pending and they were farther apart than ever when Dempsey refused the deal.

There is no way of telling whether a picture can be made even now. Kearns has visions of his own life being filmed. Dempsey, what with interested authors and other "partners," is cut up in this venture more ways than one.

But the years have knocked off a lot of brittle edges and their friends are happy to see them smiling at each other again.

Future Island Dwellers Will Commute to Vancouver—Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrah Monday predicted that future Vancouver Island dwellers will commute to daily jobs in Vancouver.

"It's a big city," he said. "Lots of people will want to get away to a quieter place to live."

Mayor Scurrah was opening a special international conference on ferries at the Empress Hotel.

Representatives from Alaska, Hawaii and Washington were meeting to discuss how to run and build an inter-island ferry system. The meeting was called by a Seattle marine architects' firm conducting a study for Hawaii to set up ferry service.

"There will be a continuing and growing amount of business between Vancouver Island and the mainland," said Mr. Scurrah.

The mayor listed these requisites for a good service: Frequency; connection of the closest land points; good and cheap restaurant service; reasonable fares and ability to load and unload in a hurry.

ALASKANS SEEM COOL TO PNR

Alaska officials seemed uninterested in the plans of the Pacific Northern Railway when they visited Victoria Monday for a conference on ferries.

Asked about the possibility of a rail link between Alaska and the U.S., Sen. Al Owen of Alaska answered: "A railway—that's kind of obsolete isn't it?"

He added: "Look how much it would cost."

The PNR is supposed to cost $250,000,000 for a line between Summit Lake, near Prince George, and the Yukon border. The company has sounded out the federal government on the possibility of extending it to the Alaska border.

Special Unit To Be Set Up For Narcotics

A separate institution for the treatment of narcotics is to be established in British Columbia. Allen J. MacLeod, commissioner of penitentiaries in Canada, announced here Monday.

On a cross-Canada tour, Mr. MacLeod said the location of the new institution is not yet known but it likely will be well away from built-up areas.

"There is an urgent need for narcotic addicts to be segregated from non-addicts," he said, "because so many non-addicts suffer from association with addicts."

Mr. MacLeod said there is as yet no known cure for drug-taking. Thousands of dollars have been spent on research in the United States without achieving any "clear result."

He revealed that the open-type penitentiary at William Head is entering on a new phase with the start of a vocational training program.

"William Head has set the pattern for future minimum security institutions," he said. "It has proved a great success and we now have closely similar institutions at Valleyfield (Quebec) and Springhill (Nova Scotia)."

"It is significant that no inmate has tried to escape from William Head for more than a year and the majority have responded well to the treatment there."

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Suez Canal was blocked to northbound shipping Monday after two ships ran aground and a dredger caught fire in the canal. Four men aboard the dredger died.

Great new way to go places! GO TCA VANGUARD

Built by Vickers...powered by Rolls-Royce

Early in 1961, the most modern airliner of its type will go into service in Canada: TCA's turbo-prop Vanguard! As TCA's fleet of 23 of these aircraft is delivered, Vanguard Service will be extended to all main centres across Canada, to the United States, and south to Tampa (Florida), Bermuda, Nassau and the Caribbean. All Vanguards will provide two classes of service for every travel purpose and for every purpose. The Vanguard is built by the makers of the famous Viscount—Vickers-Armstrongs, a member company of the British Aircraft Corporation. Like the Viscount—and TCA's DC-8 Jets, too—the Vanguard is powered by Rolls-Royce, offering TCA's passengers in 1961 a truly great new way to go places!

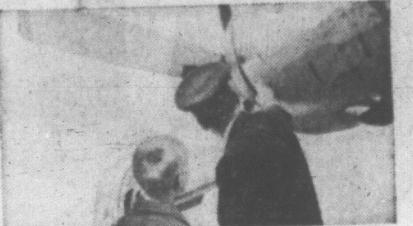

How fast is the Vanguard?

425 mph. Gets you there almost as fast as a pure jet except on long-distance flights: only 70 minutes Toronto to Montreal, 1 hr. 45 mins. Vancouver-Edmonton!

Is the Vanguard a jet?

The Vanguard's Rolls-Royce "Tyne" engines drive propellers, therefore it's called "turbo-prop" (sometimes known as "jet-prop"). The TCA DC-8 is a "pure" jet.

I'm surprised it's so BIG!

Plenty of headroom in the Vanguard. Wide aisles, roomy seats that lift up like those in a theatre, each with its own table. Carries 96 passengers comfortably!

ISLAND INDUSTRY AT STANDSTILL

Strike Perils Holly Crop

Vancouver Island's $80,000 Christmas holly industry has come to a standstill due to the threat of a nation-wide railway strike.

Mr. George A. Wiggin, manager, Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association, said today picking and packing on all Island farms has stopped due to the embargo on perishable goods pending settlement of the railway strike.

He said about 20 tons of holly was scheduled to be shipped by rail within the next few weeks to points as far east as Montreal. Packing was to start today.

"Unless there is a quick settlement, holly growers will suffer heavy losses," he said. "Air freight is too expensive."

Growers ship by rail because eastern buyers refuse to pay the extra cost for air-freight, he explained.

"There is about six cents difference between rail and air," he said. "Even if buyers were ready to pay the extra costs, it is doubtful if air-freight could handle holly during a rail strike."

About 70 growers are affected by the strike.

This year's crop, he said, was smaller than last year's but much better in quality.

"The market is good," he added. "But everything hinges on a quick settlement."

Herman Views His X-Rays at Hospital.

SCARRED-Y CAT'

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—Herman, the Don Juan tomcat, came home from the hospital Monday and—in compliance with a court order—was confined to quarters.

"He won't eat," reported his owner, Mrs. Russell Bowler.

"Liver, chicken—cat food I've offered him, but he's not interested. He just sits and broods."

Herman was in a pet hospital last week recovering from a thrashing administered by either a jealous rival or an irate householder. While he was out of court, so to speak, Judge Ralph E. Hoyt issued a temporary injunction ordering Mrs. Bowler to keep Herman from trespassing on the property of her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cook.

The Cooks, watchful owners of lady Siamese (12 of them), had sued the Bowlers for $5,500 and a permanent injunction.

Mrs. Bowler says Herman's psyche appears deeply scared by it all.

Hiker Bids For Money, Not Thanks

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — An unemployed eastern Canada man who walked from Toronto to Vancouver complained here Monday he's received his sponsor's congratulations, but not a prize of $15,000.

Kevin Griffin, 25, of Toronto, says he plans legal action if the prize money does not arrive soon.

The sponsor, a Toronto chiropractor, offered Griffin $5,000 in cash and a $10,000 medical scholarship if he made the trip by Grey Cup day—which was Saturday.

Griffin, along with pacer Matt Deane, made the trip easily and officially arrived Friday. The pair left Toronto Aug. 31.

Sandwich Run

VANCOUVER — The Pacific Great Eastern Railway will make sandwiches and beverages available on its North Vancouver-Lillooet run.

The service was stopped several months ago and complaints followed.

J. S. Broadbent, the railway's general manager, said today the new sandwich and beverage service will be handled by a catering firm.

PGE trains will continue to stop for a half-hour food break at Williams Lake.

Unknown

VANCOUVER — An unknown politician who has been unemployed has filed nomination papers as a mayoralty candidate in Vancouver's civic elections.

Little is known about Percy William Hubbard but he promised to give details of his background later.

Getting Ready

VANCOUVER — Earl Phillips, an inmate at Oakalla prison, complained Monday that his feet were sore.

Guards took him to a hospital for a checkup and he leaped from a window and sprinted for two blocks. He was captured by one of the guards.

Heathman Trial

NEW WESTMINSTER — Trial of Charles Murrell Heathman, charged with the murder of newspaper carrier Donald John Ottley, 11, at Vernon, will open Dec. 13 at New Westminister fall assizes.

Police said Monday that between 33 and 38 witnesses are expected to be called. Prosecuting counsel will be J. S. Aikens, Penticton.

Arsonist Jailed

COQUITLAM — A 26-year-old unemployed laborer was sentenced here Monday to four years in jail for setting fire to an elementary school Oct. 1.

Gordon Harvey Bergeron was found guilty of setting five separate fires in the school, causing estimated damage of $5,000.

Death Probed

CHILLIWACK — RCMP are investigating the death of a 49-year-old man who police said had been treated for several days prior to his death by a Chilliwack faith healer.

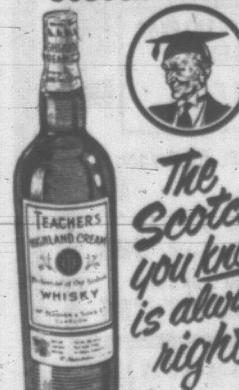

Eugene Edward Farrington, Mount Lehman, B.C., died at the home of a friend here last Friday. He had been treated by the faith healer at his friend's home for several days.

Hunter Missing

KAMLOOPS — A search is underway in the Horsefly area, 60 miles northeast of Williams Lake, for a missing hunter.

A ground party is searching for James Sawley, Pavilion, missing since early Sunday while on a hunting trip.

12 Good Reasons Why Most Victorians Shop at the Bay for Christmas

Early Bird Shoppers' Christmas Club

Want to join the "E.B.S.C.C.?" It's easy! And you can take up to 6 months to pay for your merriest Christmas ever. Here's how! Decide how much you want to spend (10% down, minimum $5) then tell the courteous staff in the accounts office, after which purchases are recorded on your "Club Card" as you shop. Your whole family can use the Club budget—all you have to do is sign them in: your signature is their authorization.

Career Accounts for Teeners to Use

If you're between 16 and 20; if you have a part-time job, baby-sit for neighbor or have a good allowance, you're eligible (with Mother and Dad's permission, of course)! Maximum amount allowed is $30, minimum monthly payment is $2. I.D. cards (identification, that is) are issued, must be presented with every purchase you make on your Career Account. Want to know more? Come up to the Accounts Office, fourth floor, for any help you need.

CDP Accounts for Home Furnishings

There's no place like home! Especially when you've furnished it from "top to bottom" with the type of furniture: floor coverings, chairs, pictures, appliances you want to have. Wondering how? It's easy with a CDP Account: nothing down, minimum $5 monthly, up to 36 months to pay depending on your purchase. Up you go to the Accounts Office, fourth, for a full, concise briefing.

Our Experts Will Gift-Wrap for You

Half the fun of getting a gift is the beautiful wrapping! If you're too busy, want to save time, and want an impressive job done on those "special presents" . . . then hand your problems (the gift-wrap kind) over to our experts, who'll do a job that's "magnifique." Where to go: The BAY'S card bar, third floor. At a nominal charge of course.

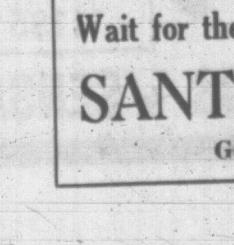

You're Always Right with a Gift Certificate

You'll never go wrong with Gift Certificate! If you've got one (or more) particular "present problems," then give that person (who seems to have everything) a certificate. Chances are, they've got their minds on one particular thing, and a Gift Certificate, specially mounted in a holiday envelope, will give them a chance to go on a spree. You can purchase yours, to any amount, at the Accounts Office, fourth.

All Christmas Cards, Wrapping in 1-Spot

Where: the Card Bar, third floor! We've got all types, shapes, kinds of cards, plus a terrific selection of wrapping paper from the Beatnik to the Beautiful. Ribbon, stickers, string and brown wrapping paper are right there, too. Added hint: our Post Office is located on the same floor, so that you can buy your cards, have your parcels expertly wrapped, and then mail everything in one fell swoop.

Park Right at the Door

Look! It's raining! Mother's just had her hair done, Dad's wearing a new coat, and no one wants to walk! This is no problem? Not at the BAY it's not! Drive into our Parkade at the Fisgard Street entrance and stay completely covered; drive in at Blanshard Street, and enter the BAY via the Parkade door on the 2nd floor. There's no walking to it! Planning on a meeting at the "Exit"? Make sure you specify "the one"—we've got three: at Fisgard, Herald and Blanshard Streets.

Send Your Parcels to the Carport

You don't have to "tote that load" of Christmas parcels anywhere. You don't have to strain, get tired, or feel slightly out of temper (and lugging a load can fray the nerves somewhat!). What do you do? Easy! Just ask that those large purchases be sent to the Carport located at the main floor Parkade entrance; then, when you've finished your shopping, hop into your car and pick them up. P.S.: We load them aboard for you, too!

Fast Mail and Phone Order Service

The BAY is as near as your phone! If you're busy, just can't make it to town, then refer to the BAY's advertisement in your paper, pick up the telephone, dial EV 5-1311, and ask for the department that carries the merchandise. We'll charge the order to you, have it delivered in fast time!

Christmas Party Service Saves Time, Money

If you belong to a local business or charitable organization, men's or women's service club and are in charge of arrangements for a Christmas Party, why not have the BAY take care of details? We'll shop for, wrap and tag favors and presents, provide a Santa suit if needed, lift the strain from your shoulders. Oh yes, there's a 10% discount on group purchases, as well. Want to know more? Dial EV 5-1311, ask for the Public Relations Representative.

Personal Shopper At Your Service

Live out of town, have a transportation problem, shy about buying that Something Special for your girl, or just too busy? No matter! It doesn't matter, either, whether you're a he or she. Just collect all the pertinent data: size, color, style in regard to that gift you want to give, then phone it in (EV 5-1311) or bring it in to our Personal Shopper, whose office is located on the third floor.

Browse in the New Trim-a-Home Shop

COLLEGE PROUD OF ITS MODELS

Construction of a new science building at Victoria College, shown here in model form with pretty Patricia Gamble, first-year student, is scheduled to start in spring. Job is expected to take 18 months. Miss

Gamble, chosen "Miss Parksville" in contest earlier this year, is no mean model herself. Attractive building will be south of Ewing Building, toward Lansdowne Road. College thinks it has the nicest "models."

YULE SERVICE ON TELEVISION

Christ Church Cathedral and CHEK-TV will combine for a television first on Christmas Eve.

The midnight Eucharist service will be telecast live over Channel 6, commencing about 11:30 p.m.

The telecast will last about 90 minutes.

Butchart's Plans 'Twilight Time' Next Summer

Next summer's visitors to the Butchart Gardens will find an expanded program of entertainment being offered according to Ian Ross, owner-manager of the famed beauty spot.

In addition to an anticipated symphony series, on three nights a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—there is being planned an hour of twilight time entertainment in popular style.

Type of entertainment will vary from night to night and while plans have not yet been finalized, it is expected that John Dunbar, widely known Victoria baritone, will play a leading part as MC and occasional soloist.

There are many ways of being wakened in the morning. It may be a screaming alarm clock, a gentle shake of the shoulder, a wet sponge squeezed down the neck—or a rattle that plays the Blue Danube.

Harold Jessop of 1325 Cook Street thought he had found the pleasantest method—a machine which poured a steaming cup of coffee, lit up the bedside lamp and rang a set of chimes.

It worked well for a day or two. Then something went wrong with the gears. Harold was awakened at three in the morning with coffee, lights and bells!

Christmas in mid-Atlantic will be spent by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dudley of Tattersall Drive.

Mr. Dudley retired here recently after 45 years service with Imperial Oil.

He and his wife are sailing for England in the Dutch steamer Dintelduik via San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Panama.

They will also tour Scotland and parts of the Continent.

A friend of mine insists there is a "dead" hydrant at the corner of Discovery and Government Streets.

"I use it as a private parking place," he says, "because other motorists are afraid of it. Actually it's an old seawater pump that hasn't been used for 50 years.

"No fire brigade could use it—and there's a real hydrant less than five yards away on the opposite corner."

Attention Victoria fire brigade!

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A fire which started in the rear seat upholstery completely gutted the car of Edwin Lalonde, 1440 Bay, on Gillespie Road in Sooke Monday night.

Police said the blaze was likely started by cigarette ash which had blown back through an open rear window.

Mr. Lalonde opened the car door on smelling smoke and the added draught whipped the smouldering upholstery into sudden flame.

He was taking the car to show to a prospective buyer.

William Hawkins, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner, has been elected a provisional director of the newly-formed Canadian Association of Convention Bureaus in Ottawa.

ASK The TIMES

Q. What is the seating capacity of London's Albert Hall? R.G.H.M.

A. After being laid off from a job how long would a person be entitled to receive unemployment insurance, and when was unemployment insurance started in Canada?

A. There is no general answer to the first point in your question, as it depends on both the time and amount of contributions. The NES, 1039 Johnson, deals with each specific claim on its own merits. Unemployment insurance was started in Canada July 1, 1941.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along with the name and address to "Ask The Times" editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest.

A Scottish concert will be presented in Holyrood House at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday by the Barclay Singers, conducted by Vera Barclay. They will be assisted by John Dunbar, Eunice Dockree, Ron Chisholm, Adelaid Duncan, dancers and a junior ensemble.

The pianist for the choir will be J. Saunders.

Lands and forests minister Ray G. Williston will address this week's meeting of Oak Bay Kiwanis in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. Wednesday. He will speak on "Power Developments in the Peace and Columbia Rivers."

Canadian National Railways Veterans' Association will hold a "Ladies' Day" meeting in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Cormorant Street, Friday at 2 p.m.

The meeting will feature films and lunch and prizes will be provided.

Window cleaner Robert D. Roger, 20, of 486 Fraser, was at work at Bank of Nova Scotia, Yates and Douglas Branch, when he toppled 20 feet from a ladder to street level at 8:15 a.m. today.

City police ambulance took him to St. Joseph's Hospital where he was treated and sent home—with only a broken arm.

A free preview of films will be held in the Music Room of Victoria Public Library on Wednesday at 3 p.m.

RCMP were expected to lay charges against a trio of Vancouver men for the slaying of three cow elk.

Carcasses of the animals, protected by law, were found in the Nanaimo Lakes area Sunday by members of the Nanaimo Fish and Game Association. Game Warden Frank Greenfield and RCMP, assisted by game club members, began an immediate investigation.

Bull elk have been legal game for the past five years.

However, the season, limited to three weekends to protect the small herds, ended Oct. 30. Shooting of cow elk is against the law. Maximum fine under the Game Act is $500.

NEW VOICE TELLING US NOON TIME

The "boom" you heard at noon today was the same time signal with a different voice.

The noon gun is fired by the Work Point army garrison, and since the end of the Second World War, a six-pounder anti-tank gun has fired the signal daily.

The six-pounder fired for the last time Monday. Today the chore was taken over by a relatively new member of the artillery family, a 105 millimeter medium artillery gun, the Canadian Army's most recent piece of conventional artillery.

19-Year-Old Girl Jailed In Burglary

Sentence Pending For Male Companion

A 19-year-old girl was sentenced to two months in jail today for her part in a cafe burglary early last Thursday.

Patricia Joseph, Chandler Hotel, was one of three charged with breaking, entering and theft of 20 packages of cigarettes from Mai's Cafe, 2251 Government, at about 2 a.m.

Ronald Morry, 24, also of Chandler Hotel, pleaded guilty with the girl, and Morry's brother Frederick, 21, Red's Auto Court, was slated for trial today on a not guilty plea.

Magistrate William Ostler, who had read a probation report for the girl in which there were references to the other accused, refused to proceed with the trial.

HIGHER COURT

He made the trial a preliminary hearing, listened to the Crown's evidence and committed Frederick Morry for trial by a higher court.

He said the probation report "may have given me some pre-conceived ideas."

Ronald Morry was remanded to Wednesday for clarification of a previous record and sentence.

Mr. Ostler noted the girl's part in the affair was passive and that she was under the influence of drink and other people. "Carry on this way and you are going to be headed for serious trouble," he said.

Before leaving the courtroom, Frederick Morry complained to the magistrate and the others had been kept in maximum security in the jail without reason.

NO VISITORS

Since their arrest—shortly after the offence—they had been allowed no visitors and had "managed to use the phone twice through the John Howard Society," the accused said.

You are permitted to use the telephone and obtain counsel. Maximum security has nothing to do with me. It is a matter entirely for the police," Mr. Ostler said.

Chief John Blackstock later said the accused had been kept segregated, but were not denied privileges.

The premier hinted of a new program or new legislation connecting labor and education. He was asked if he did not

POOLED EVERYONE

He commented that he had everyone "fooled" about his choices.

"I'm very happy to have a lady in the cabinet and especially Mrs. Brown," he said. "And the minister of agriculture comes from one of the oldest families in the Interior, one of the original settlers.

"An additional post is being given to Vancouver Island," he added, "Mr. Westwood is very experienced; I'm sure he will be able to handle this very difficult portfolio."

She said problems of retarded children, paraplegics and correctional institutions will be among her chief concerns. She said she feels a woman will be able to view such problems with a different eye.

She moves today into the office vacated by Mr. Wicks.

Mr. Richter, 50, was born at Keremeos, where his family pioneered an 8,750-acre farm, which he managed for 21 years. He now has 2,000 acres, plus grazing lands, near Cawston, with 250 head of beef cattle.

WICKS 'RETIRE'

He's a member of the British Columbia Federation of Agriculture and a past president of the British Columbia Beef Cattle Growers.

He was first elected in the 1953 general election.

Mr. Peterson, 37, was born at Viking, Alta. A lawyer, he first won election in Vancouver Centre in 1956, and became a member of the parks board in Vancouver.

He said she will commute from Vancouver at first, and may move to Victoria later.

Mr. Richter said, "I'll take over right away and start with both feet squarely on the ground." He was in his new office this morning.

He promised a hearing for farmers' problems. This was a source of conflict during Mr. Steacy's regime.

"If there are any problems I won't hesitate to discuss them with the farmers' institutes," said the new minister.

Asked if this meant he would allow their representatives to appear before the Legislature's agriculture committee, a practice halted by Mr. Steacy, he said: "It's a little premature."

Asked if he would take any action on the Milky Way Dairy farm problem in Saanich, he will "look into the matter."

"We have problems, and they will have to be solved" was his summing-up of his new job.

Mrs. Read said that after Mr. Osborn's explanation, Mrs. Jones was the first to be offered her job back but she declined it until all six were given the same chance.

Mrs. Read said that at a closed hearing by the commission, "Mr. Osborn and two other commissioners said Mr. Noakes' work was A-1 and his integrity was unquestioned. Yet they are willing to sacrifice him to save face now."

COULD SAVE TAXPAYERS'

"Not only is Mr. Noakes and his family suffering while he is out of a job but so are the people of Victoria."

"We made a statement at the hearing that Mr. Noakes could go back into the arena and very shortly have all the loose ends tied up and save the taxpayers thousands of dollars. We will stick by that statement."

Mrs. Read said that after Mr. Osborn's explanation, Mrs. Jones was the first to be offered her job back but she declined it until all six were given the same chance.

"I see no reason why we should have to go to the commission with our hats in our hands. We have done nothing wrong."

"We feel we have been right and honest and one of us should not be sacrificed. If Mr. Noakes is wrong, then we are all wrong."

HADDOCK CONCERNED

Earlier, Mr. Osborn told The Times that "a decision has not been made yet" when asked if the commission would not rehire Mr. Noakes. He said the office manager and arena manager vacancies would be advertised.

Commissioner Courtney Haddock, who previously threatened to resign over the commission's acceptance of a three-month delay in Mr. Dukowski's resignation, indicated he was concerned about recent developments.

He said he withheld his resignation because of the assurance of fair treatment to the six former employees but "I'm going to have a very strong statement to make if Mr. Noakes doesn't get his job. It would be most unjust, callous treatment."

'SAVE FACE'

At the same time, Ald. J. L. McLean said he was seeking more information about the situation which he did not have when council voted confidence in the commission.

"The more I hear the less I like the blanket motion. I don't think we should have peace at any price if the price is injustice to the former employees."

'Save Face' Charge Aimed at Arena Board

Employee 'Sacrificed Deliberately'

Memorial Arena Commission today was accused of deliberately sacrificing a former employee to "save face" for itself.

The resignation controversy, smoothed over by a confidence motion at last week's council meeting, appeared headed for a crisis again as the arena's former chief

Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jenner were guests of honor at a family dinner in the private dining-room of the Monterey Restaurant last Saturday when relatives gathered to mark their diamond wedding anniversary. A grandson, Mr. Bill Gosling, presently teaching at Squamish, was the only member of the family unable to be present. There are five children, nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, all living in Victoria. A three-tier-wedding cake, made by the couple's eldest daughter, Mrs. George Hearn, and decorated by their youngest daughter, Miss Noni Jenner, centred the table. Messages of congratulations were read, including greetings from Her Majesty the Queen, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, and friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Jenner were married in the Bethel Chapel in Lowestoft, Suffolk, England, on November 26, 1900, and came to Canada a few years later. They moved to Victoria in 1912, where they have lived ever since. Mr. Jenner served with the Royal Canadian Navy during the First World War.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Edith Draper and Mrs. A. Naylor were honored recently on their 94th and 76th birthdays, when members of Esquimalt Women's Institute gathered at the John St. home of Mrs. A. Hopwood for a social and beetle drive. Prize winners were Mrs. G. Dunn, Mrs. S. Hartley, Mrs. R. Culverwell, Mrs. W. Strawson, Mrs. A. McVie, Mrs. B. Daws, Mrs. W. Hornby, Mrs. E. Ness and Mrs. B. Bukiin. Dogwood pins were given to the honor guests.

Bride Feted

Prior to her recent marriage in Centennial United Church, Mrs. Donald Dent, the former Miss Heather Robertson, was widely feted. A bridal ship decorated in turquoise and yellow held gifts at a shower given by Miss Sandra McKeachie in the Wootton Crescent home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McKeachie. Guest of honor was presented with yellow roses, an corsage and her mother, Mrs. A. M. Robertson, received pink carnations. Guests included Mrs. J. Nevison, Mrs. C. Willis, Mrs. S. Cosh, mother of the groom; Mrs. McKeachie, and the Misses Annette Robertson, Carol Holmes, Karen Jacobsen, Valerie Watkins, Karen Sinclair, Kathy Todd, Diane Bonsar, Carol Ann Berry and Mary Jane McKeachie.

PREDICTION

Decade to Bring Tripled Population in Victoria

A tripled population and a tremendous increase in apartment production within 10 years in this city, was predicted by investment dealer Eric Lindberg at meeting of Victoria Branch, Canadian Association of Consumers, in Victoria Library music room Monday afternoon. His topic was "Value for Your Housing Dollar."

Best value for the housing dollar came from renting an apartment, Mr. Lindberg said. "Only basic advantage to owning a house is its privacy." This advantage, the speaker added, is lessening due to decreasing size of building lots.

"A person with a family should have his own house," he added, "for it is a tremendous stabilizing factor." Careful consideration should be given, however, to the type of house in order to make it "a good resale bet."

The average purchase price today is around $17,500. "It is a mistake to buy a low-priced house," Mr. Lindberg stressed, "it will depreciate fast."

A "jazzed up" house with "extras which do not improve the basic quality" is not a good buy, he said. Another major consideration is to "purchase

Attendant Missing

PACIFIC, Eng.—(UPI)—A "missing" bridesmaid today all but held up the society wedding of artist Timothy Phillips, son of Toronto Massay-Harris chairman Col. Eric Phillips, and landscape artist Suzanne Lisney.

The couple were married on time in the 14th century village church here—but only just.

The bridesmaid, 17-year-old Christine Casenave of Bordeaux, France, was the only attendant at the wedding. But she was "missing" for 24 hours—and did not get to the village until a few minutes before the ceremony.

She explained she set out from Bordeaux last weekend and reached Paris on Sunday when she discovered she had left her passport behind. She had to make a 1,000-mile dash back to Bordeaux to get it.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Ferry Operator Accuses Gagliardi of Inaction

KELSEY BAY — Eric Murray, operator of the MV Uchuck 3 which runs as a ferry between Kelsey Bay and the north Island, Monday charged Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi with refusing to take action in the current ferry controversy there.

He said the situation occurred because Capt. H. Terry, who heads the Northwest Shipping Company which also operates a ferry, is adviser to the government on ferry operations.

Mr. Murray said the north Islanders don't care who runs the ferry service but they want a run that will take passengers, freight and cars.

The service by Northwest Shipping carries passengers only.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Mr. and Mrs. James Bicton of Campbell River have accepted a $17,000 Vancouver Court award for injuries suffered in a car collision two years ago.

Mr. Bicton lost four front teeth and suffered other injuries. His wife was left with facial scars.

Driver of the other car was George Joyce, a Campbell River fisherman.

POR WASHINGTON — Improvements estimated at $50,000 will be undertaken on the federal wharf here.

Tenders will be called soon for construction of an end-loading ferry slip plus modifications to the existing wharf.

The provincial government will construct the slip while the federal government will bear costs of wharf improvements.

DUNCAN — Lieut. Gov. G. R. Pearkes has accepted the honorary post of provincial patron of the Boy Scout Association of B.C. and the Yukon.

Announcement was made by chairman David P. Shepard at a meeting of the provincial council here Monday night.

"Mr. Pearkes has followed the Boy Scout movement with keen interest for many years and has promised to do all he can to further assist scouting," said Mr. Shepard.

TOFINO — This village and neighboring Ucluelet, isolated on the west coast of Vancouver Island, have trouble keeping in touch with the rest of B.C.

Monday was official nomination day for all villages, municipalities and most cities in B.C.

But not in Tofino and Ucluelet.

Village clerks hadn't heard. Last session of the legislature moved nomination day to the last Monday in November.

Government authorities have given the villages permission to hold nominations on the old date, Dec. 5.

DUNCAN — Second highest award in scouting was presented to a Duncan man at a meeting of the Boy Scout projects.

The above equipment may be seen at No. 1 Fire Hall, 3680 Douglas Street.

Tenders may bid on any one or more of the above items.

Tenders to be in a sealed envelope marked "Tenders for Equipment" and to be received by the undersigned by 5 p.m., Friday, December 18, 1960.

Terms—cash. Highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

'WHISTLES FROM RING' FOR NEW HEMINGWAY BOOK

MADRID (UPI) — Spanish bullfight "aficionados" saw red today over American novelist Ernest Hemingway's criticism of their bullfighting idol, Manuel "Manolete" Rodriguez.

"Manolete," who was the "Babe Ruth" of Spanish matadors, was gored to death by a bull in Linares, Spain, on August 28, 1947.

The Nobel Prize-winning author was under attack for a series of articles from his book "Dangerous Summer," published recently in Life magazine.

National television critic Manuel Lozano Sevilla suggested that Hemingway receive the same treatment reserved for an inept performance by a bullfighter—that he be whistled in derision from the ring.

'CHEAP TRICKS'

Lozano took exception, along with many other persons, to Hemingway's statement that "Manolete" used "cheap tricks" to fool an "ignorant public".

In the series, Hemingway wrote that the greatest bullfighter of them all is Antonio Ordóñez. Ordóñez is one of Spain's greatest matadors but usually not raised to "Manolete's" stature.

"I don't think it too wise of Hemingway to criticize Manolete," said Lozano, "especially when he never saw him fight."

Lozano called on Spaniards to forgive all other Americans for the "foolish" things that Hemingway has written, and not hold it against the entire nation.

He told his audience that the man who called "Manolete" a cheat was a "sick man" who should not be writing, but be in a hospital.

"Hemingway is not a bullfight fan," Lozano said. "He is a fan of Antonio Ordóñez."

WAIT FOR HIM

Another commentator, Miguel Utrillo, said over a Madrid radio station that Hemingway should watch out because fans would be waiting for him outside the bull ring.

Hemingway is the author of two bull fight classics, "Death in the Afternoon" and "The Sun Also Rises." He won the Nobel prize for literature in 1954 for "The Old Man and the Sea."

IN ESQUIMALT-SAANICH BYELECTION

Liberals Launch Groos, Campaign

The Liberals launched their candidate and their campaign in the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich Monday night.

The man: Capt. David Groos, unanimous and unopposed choice.

The campaign: "I'm starting tonight," he told about 160 people who attended his nominating convention in Tillicum School.

A challenge to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker to throw open the race was issued by James Scott, national organizer for the Liberal party and guest speaker at the convention.

A special feature of the evening was a taped message from party leader Lester B. Pearson.

SURVIVAL BY PARLEY

"I know you will choose a good candidate, and you will all rally round and win this by-election . . . It will be a great encouragement to us in opposition and a sign to the whole country," Mr. Pearson said.

Capt. Groos indicated he'll be especially interested in defense policy.

"I firmly believe that when nuclear weapons were invented war became outdated. They don't settle anything and everybody loses."

He said the way to survival is around the conference table. "In days like these we can't disband our armed forces, but I do think that they should be changed somewhat in character and in content."

TOUGH ELECTION

He warned the Esquimalt-Saanich election will be tough. He said his first job will be to call on all former federal and provincial candidates for advice. "Then I will be out looking for Liberals anywhere."

"I will attend luncheons, teas, dinners, weight-lifting contests—anything you like."

This notification was given recently by J. W. Pickersgill, former Liberal immigration minister.

"If we'd waited for Mr. Diefenbaker we'd have had a general election first," said Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott said he thinks it "highly unlikely" there will be an early general election. The Esquimalt-Saanich byelection.

A byelection must be held within six months of notification.

The Liberals will lay the foundation for a solid, practical legislative program at a national rally in January, said Mr. Scott.

He said the Conservatives are "a government of words".

"Mr. Pearson never got a vision in his life and doesn't believe in that kind of inspiration."

DISTINGUISHED RECORD

The way the Conservatives battle unemployment is to produce statistics showing there are more people working than ever. However, statistics also show that there are more out of work than any time since the 1930's.

There's the difference. The Liberals aren't protecting the interests of the people who are alright, they're protecting those who need help."

Capt. Groos, 42, was nominated by Ivan Moutat.

He joined HMCS Restigouche in 1939 as the junior officer, and rose to become its captain by 1943. He won the Distinguished Service Cross and was twice mentioned in dispatches.

He also served as naval attaché in Washington and commanded HMCS Venture, the training ship in Esquimalt, in his last post.

Salesmen Admit Perjury

REGINA (CP)—Three former salesmen with Western Bond and Share Company of Saskatoon Monday admitted they perjured themselves at a Saskatchewan Securities Commission inquiry in 1958.

Victor Jack Boehler, a real estate salesman; Olaf Letrud and John George Abbott, all of Saskatoon, were testifying at the preliminary hearing of Dr. M. C. Shumatcher, a Regina lawyer, on 11 charges of counselling perjury in connection with the 1958 inquiry.

The three men were engaged in selling shares in Columbia Metals Exploration Company. Dr. Shumatcher was counsel for Columbia Metals and Western Bond.

In reply to special prosecutor Norman Mathews of Toronto, Boehler said he sold a substantial number of shares and believed representations he made to prospective buyers were true.

Mr. Boehler said the information for his representations was provided by W. W. Luboff, of Saskatchewan, owner of Western Bond and an official of Columbia.

Among things Luboff told him, he said, were of a $7,500,000 Esterhazy, Sask., potash deposit; Columbia shares would be listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange; Ford Motor Company was going to be involved with Columbia in a three-point contract; Ford had put $4,500,000 in the Bank of Montreal in Saskatoon.

PWA SKEPTICAL

Huge 'Birds' To Ply Run

By GORDON BELL, Times Business Editor

A downtown-to-downtown Victoria-Vancouver helicopter service will begin late next year, Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. announced today.

The company plans to raise $3,000,000 early next year for three fully-instrumented, all-weather helicopters, president Glenn W. MacPherson said.

The fare will be $11 one way "or perhaps more," said Mr. MacPherson.

Either Boeing Vertol 107s or Sikorsky S-61s, both 25-28 passenger craft, will be used.

The inter-city service would be a 30-minute run on a schedule "equal to or better" than that provided by Trans-Canada Airlines.

Landing facilities in Victoria would be no problem, the Okanagan president said. While he would prefer a ground landing area at Victoria there are several persons interested in building a combined parking garage-heliport structure.

In Vancouver the city planning department, Department of Transport officials and Okanagan engineering staff have been surveying sites in the Coal-Harbor area and negotiating with several firms interested in putting up a structure which would combine car parking, marina, restaurant and heliport facilities.

MacPherson said his firm believes' helicopters are much farther away than Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. estimates."

PWA is still analyzing the air route economics, particularly in the light of the effect the government ferries have had on TCA which has lost an estimated 40 per cent of its passengers to the ferries.

Mr. MacPherson emphasized that Okanagan was not going into the Victoria-Vancouver run until it was certain that it could provide top service.

He added: "TCA has been co-operating with us since they recognize the economics of the run make it a helicopter proposition."

TCA vice-president H. G. Wood told The Times from Montreal: "This is the first I've heard of it. It's very interesting but as the situation exists today TCA has no plans to drop its Vancouver-Victoria service."

TCA has announced fare and service frequency changes.

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Why Haven't They Joined?

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

As a spokesman of his government told this reporter in London recently, Prime Minister Macmillan is deeply worried by the division of Europe between the two giant trading blocs, whose developing economic conflicts are likely to have grave political results.

Mr. Macmillan, doubtless the ablest statesman of the Western world, has good reason for worry.

So has Dr. Adenauer, chancellor of West Germany and great stone face of Europe, though he knows much less about economics than Mr. Macmillan. As Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and real economic boss of Germany, said in a statement already published here, the present division of Europe is "grotesque" and the union of the Six and the Seven essential.

Why, then, have Britain and its partner nations of the Seven declined to join the booming Common Market controlled by Germany and France? For three main reasons, all of them apparently intractable but in fact all negotiable.

Fourth Suspect Nabbed In Kidnapping Roundup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation converged on a started Frank Marrone at a Los Angeles intersection early today and arrested him in the kidnapping a week ago of wealthy sportsman Anthony Alessio.

The FBI said Marrone, 31, a convicted murderer with a long police record, was unarmed and offered no resistance.

The agents said Marrone—driving his own 1953 automobile—carried currency identified as part of the $200,000 ransom paid by the Alessio family to obtain his release.

MONEY RECOVERED

A widespread search for Marrone started after the FBI arrested his wife, Selma, 25, and another couple in Hollywood last Friday. Agents recovered $77,900 of the ransom money at that time.

Don Keller, San Diego County district attorney, said Monday night he planned to file formal kidnapping charges against the three today. The other two are James R. Gorman, 29, identified as an escaped convict, also wanted for a $13,000 Huntington Park, Calif., market robbery; and Gorman's wife, Ruby, 30.

Marrone has been free on bond from a 1959 murder conviction in Alaska.

In Washington the FBI said the cash found on Marrone came to $4,593, leaving more than $100,000 of the ransom still missing.

Doctor Arrested

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI director J. Edgar Hoover today announced the arrest of Dr. Robert Soble, 60-year-old New York City physician, on charges of conspiring to steal defence secrets for the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, it was reported by Katanga government spokesmen reported today that United Nations Nigerian troops killed at least 30 rebel tribesmen who tried to ambush them.

A UN spokesman said its last report from the 100-man Nigerian force in Northern Katanga was that 14 dead had been counted.

Two little brothers today sent a dollar each to the Times appeal for hungry children of India.

Greg Dowell, 6, and big brother Brian, 7, 3680 Crestview, each wrote individually in large clear printing on lined school notebook paper that "this is in place of Christmas gifts for my brother."

It was addressed to "Dear Mr. Times."

This exemplifies the true spirit of giving. There are many such instances. When the campaign started last Friday, for example, $100 was received from the estate of the late Mrs. Mary L. Farquhar.

It was what she wanted in her will.

'FUSS, BOTHER' CANADA PLAN UPSETS NIKITA

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev says a Canadian disarmament initiative here, spear-headed by External Affairs Minister Howard Green, is "not even remotely concerned with genuine" arms reduction.

In a special General Assembly document he said the Canadian proposal was a frank testimonial that the NATO government refused "to agree to disarmament."

"For the vital matter of disarmament they wish to substitute a fuss and bother with archives," Mr. Krushchev said in a reference to the Canadian plan to have a special United Nations committee study, among other matters, records of speeches and documents on the disarmament question.

In the Commons, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he and his cabinet would meet with railway and union leaders again later today to find out if there is "any vestige of hope" that a settlement of the strike crisis can be reached.

He said that if the disputants failed to show signs of progress, the government will regard the process of collective bargaining to have ended.

CNR President Donald Gordon was understood to have a last-ditch idea up his sleeve in a bid to avert the nation-wide railway strike threatened for Saturday.

Union negotiators were said to be holding firm to their demand for a 14-cent hourly pay boost as recommended by a federal conciliation board. They have emphatically rejected Mr. Diefenbaker's request to postpone any strike action until May 15.

Residents of this farming community, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton, rushed to the scene to give aid.

Medical supplies and doctors were dispatched from Edmonton.

One report said the bus was travelling along the highway parallel to the track then made a right turn to cross the track, a quarter of a mile east of the town. The train hit the bus broadside.

The bus was within sight of the school as it turned over the crossing. Citizens said that the early-morning sun would have been in the eyes of the driver as he looked to his right down the track.

Officials said there should have been 44 children, plus the driver, aboard if all were present. A complete check had not been made.

School books, lunches, blood and seats were strewn along the track.

Acetylene torches were used to cut through the wreckage to reach some of the victims.

As residents reached them, those who were believed still alive were placed in private cars and station wagons for the short trip to the Archer Memorial Hospital. Those believed dead were moved by truck.

Throughout the morning a tragic procession moved to and from the hospital.

25 Injured In Alberta

LAMONT, Alta. (CP)—Sixteen high school students were killed and 25 injured today when a fast-moving Canadian National Railways freight train knifed through a school bus at a level-crossing near here.

The toll was announced officially by RCMP who said 42 persons were aboard the yellow school bus. Ten of the injured were reported in serious condition. One student escaped injury.

Driver Frank Butney, about 27, was among the survivors.

The students attended grades 10, 11 and 12 at the high school here. They had been picked up at their homes in the Chipman district, 10 miles southeast of here, and were due at classes at 9:15 a.m. MST.

Rail Talks Near End?

OTTAWA (CP)—Barring a dramatic last-minute concession from the major railways or something more firm from the government, union negotiators will probably walk out of the railway strike crisis talks later today, informants said.

HOW THE EXPERTS SAW GREY CUP FINAL

Rider Defence Stands Out in Dull Encounter

Besides the screaming acclaim from hometown fans, Ottawa Rough Riders have harvested a bushel of unscored touchdowns from their Grey Cup victory. Saturday over Edmonton Eskimos.

Sports writers and columnists who saw the annual football classic at Vancouver generously praised Ottawa's hard-checking defence. They just as generously decided that the Rough Riders could have scored one, two or even three more touchdowns against the Eskimos.

Most of all, however, the country's sports pages were filled later with kind words for Lou Bruce, Gerry Nesbitt, Kaye Vaughan, Fred Robinson, Tom Jones, Bob Simpson and other members of the eastern team for a defensive performance generally conceded to have brought Ottawa the 16-6 victory.

Jack Kinsella wasn't showing hometown partisanship when he wrote in the Ottawa Citizen: "The secret was a tremendous defence, the chief characteristic of the Rider team all season. It kept a vice-like grip on the vaunted Edmonton attack all afternoon, rendering it almost non-existent. Even more, it neutralized the Eskimos' chief weapon, Jackie Parker

Hal Sigurdson of The Winnipeg Free Press said western observers "had Winnipeg and Edmonton figured as the country's finest defensive teams, but that Ottawa team doesn't take a back seat to either of them." That jolting line was too much for Eskimos," wrote Baz O'Meara in The Montreal Star.

Said Hal Walker, Toronto Telegram: "This was a ball game of defence and Ottawa won it all the way."

Walker figured the Rough Riders "conceivably could have won it by at least two more touchdowns," while Maurice Smith of The Winnipeg Free Press thought a three-touchdown margin would not have been surprising. Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal

Dull Encounter

The premature end to the game — when fans swarmed onto the field 41 seconds before the final whistle and a youngster stole the ball — did not escape comment.

Hal Walker wrote: "The bush league ending to Canada's greatest sports spectacle might have far-reaching implications. It might mean that Vancouver will never host the Grey Cup game again."

Stan Moher, public relations officer with the Eskimos, wrote in the Calgary Albertan

that "Vancouver, it appears, has more than its share of dingy kids and Empire Stadium sure less than enough policing."

Scotty Melville of the Regina Leader-Post gave a western summming-up to the game: "It was one of those years that come too often, when the Western Conference finalists beat each other to a pulp and the Big Four winners have a great advantage against the spent survivor in the windup game."

MOUNT VIEW TIED

Shutout Streak Ended by Vics

By RON SUDLOW

All good things must come to an end and that's the lesson Larry Johnston learned Monday.

The Mount View netminder was finally beaten on a shot after a string of seven shutouts, but the Vicks are still slightly favored to claim the Victoria high school senior boys' soccer championship.

Victoria High's Fred Potts was the one who solved the riddle posed by Johnston's netminding, but the best Totems could do was to settle for a 1-1 draw in the opening game in the best-of-three series.

Second game will be played Wednesday at Victoria High grounds, starting at 3:15.

MISSSED CHANCES

Vicks, holding a slight edge in the run of play in the first half, missed glorious scoring chances when Al Boden and Ray Williams failed from close in.

Potts, pouncing on the ball when it glanced off a defender, sent Vic High ahead in the second half. Roy St. Dennis, neatly beating the two rival fullbacks, squared matters a few minutes later.

On the junior scene, Oak Bay remained undefeated as their season drew to a close by trouncing Mount Douglas 3-1.

STREAK ENDED

Brian Ridgeway started things off for the Bays, but Dan Hollow tied the contest basically as result of a pretty passing play to end Oak Bay's three-game shutout skein.

In the second half, the Bays opened up with Jeff Yuen getting the winner and Bill Wilcox supplying the clincher.

Monday's other game played at Vic West Park saw last-place Esquimalt go through its fifth consecutive scoreless game, losing 1-0 to Mount View.

Bill Falconer scored the contest's lone marker.

As there is no trophy for the league championship, Oak Bay and Victoria High have been named to share the Big Horn Trophy awarded each year to the junior team best displaying sportsmanship.

COLLEGE PROUD OF ITS MODELS

Construction of a new science building at Victoria College, shown here in model form with pretty Patricia Gamble, first-year student, is scheduled to start in spring. Job is expected to take 18 months. Miss

Gamble, chosen "Miss Parksville" in contest earlier this year, is no mean model herself. Attractive building will be south of Ewing Building, toward Lansdowne Road. College thinks it has the nicest "models."

... HERE
AND THERE . . .
With NORMAN CRIBBENS

There are many ways of being wakened in the morning. It may be a screaming alarm clock, a gentle shake of the shoulder, a wet sponge squeezed down the neck—or a clock that plays the Blue Danube.

Harold Jessop of 1325 Cook Street thought he had found the pleasantest method—a machine which poured a steaming cup of coffee, lit up the bedside lamp and rang a set of chimes.

It worked well for day or two. Then something went wrong with the gears. Harold was awakened at three in the morning with coffee, lights and bells!

Christmas in mid-Atlantic will be spent by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dudley of Tatler's Drive.

Mr. Dudley retired here recently after 45 years service with Imperial Oil.

He and his wife are sailing for England in the Dutch steamer Dintelduk via San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Panama.

They will also tour Scotland and parts of the Continent.

A friend of mine insists there is a "dead" hydrant at the corner of Discovery and Government Streets.

"I use it as a private parking place," he says, "because other motorists are afraid of it. Actually it's an old seawater pump that hasn't been used for 50 years.

No fire brigade could use it—and there's a real hydrant less than five yards away on the opposite corner."

Attention Victoria fire brigade!

YULE SERVICE ON TELEVISION

Christ Church Cathedral and CHEK-TV will combine for a television first on Christmas Eve.

The midnight Eucharist service will be telecast live over Channel 6, commencing about 11:30 p.m.

The telecast will last about 90 minutes.

Butchart's Plans 'Twilight Time' Next Summer

Next summer's visitors to the Butchart Gardens will find an extended program of entertainment being offered according to Ian Ross, owner-manager of the famed beauty spot.

In addition to an anticipated symphony series, on, three nights a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—there is being planned an hour of twilight time entertainment in popular style.

Type of entertainment will vary from night to night and while plans have not yet been finalized, it is expected that John Dunbar, widely known Victoria baritone, will play a leading part as MC and occasional soloist.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A fire which started in the rear seat upholstery completely gutted the car of Edward Lalonde, 1440 Bay, on Gillespie Road in Sooke Monday night.

Police said the blaze was likely started by cigarette ash which had blown back through an open rear window.

Mr. Lalonde opened the car door on smelling smoke and the added draught whipped the smouldering upholstery into sudden flame.

He was taking the car to show to a prospective buyer.

William Hawkins, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner, has been elected a provisional director of the newly-formed Canadian Association of Convention Bureaus in Ottawa.

ASK The TIMES

Q. What is the seating capacity of London's Albert Hall? R.G.H.M.

A. 8,000 persons.

Q. After being laid off from a job how long would a person be entitled to receive unemployment insurance, and when was unemployment insurance started in Canada? E.S.

A. There is no general answer to the first point in your question, as it depends on both the time and amount of contributions. The NES, 1039 Johnson, deals with each specific claim on its own merits. Unemployment insurance was started in Canada July 1, 1941.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be handled under pseudonyms. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not endeavor to answer personal or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

McKenzie Avenue PTA will hold a "Dessert 'n' Film Party" on Friday evening at 6:30 in the school auditorium.

Families are invited to come to the school for their dinner dessert and stay for the showing of an amusing film, "The Scoutmaster," starring Clifton Webb.

Some went on a window-smashing spree at the Legislative Buildings at the weekend, punching in about 18 windows in the vicinity of Queen's Printer, labor department and provincial tax collector.

At the same time, a government-owned car parked on a lot at Menzies and Superior had a door panel kicked in, window smashed by rocks, tailights and exhaust pipe broken, windshield wipers and licence plates ripped away.

A boat's compass valued at $45 was stolen from the fishing vessel "Vicki" moored at the foot of Yates, owner Al Webb, 522 Toronto, told city police.

The theft is one of a series of recent losses from small craft moored in the Inner Harbour.

A Scottish concert will be presented in Holyrood House at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday by the Barclay Singers, conducted by Vera Barclay. They will be assisted by John Dunbar, Eunice Dockree, Ron Chisholm, Adele Duncan, dancers and a junior ensemble. The pianist for the choir will be J. Saunders.

Lands and forests minister Ray G. Williston will address this week's meeting of Oak Bay Kiwanis in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. Wednesday. He will speak on "Power Developments in the Peace and Columbia Rivers."

NEW VOICE TELLING US NOON TIME

The "boom" you heard at noon today was the same time signal with a different voice.

The noon gun is fired by the Work Point army garrison, and since the end of the Second World War, a six-pounder anti-tank gun has fired the signal daily.

The six-pounder fired for the last time Monday. Today the chore was taken over by a relatively new member of the artillery family, a 105 millimeter medium artillery gun, the Canadian Army's most recent piece of conventional artillery.

19-Year-Old Girl Jailed In Burglary

Sentence Pending For Male Companion

A 19-year-old girl was sentenced to two months in jail today for her part in a cafe burglary early last Thursday.

Patricia Joseph, Chandler Hotel, was one of three charged with breaking, entering and theft of 20 packages of cigarettes from Mai's Cafe, 2251 Government, at about 2 a.m.

Ronald Morry, 24, also of Chandler Hotel, pleaded guilty with the girl, and Morry's brother Frederick, 21, Red's Auto Court, was slated for trial today on a not guilty plea.

Magistrate William Ostler, who had read a probation for the girl in which there were references to the other accused, refused to proceed with the trial.

HIGHER COURT

He made the trial a preliminary hearing, listened to the Crown's evidence and committed Frederick Morry for trial by a higher court.

He said the probation report "may have given me some pre-conceived ideas."

Ronald Morry was remanded to Wednesday for clarification of a previous record and sentence.

Mr. Ostler noted the girl's part in the affair was passive and that she was under the influence of drink and other people. "Carry on this way and you are going to be headed for serious trouble," he said.

Before leaving the courtroom, Frederick Morry complained to the magistrate he and the others had been kept in maximum security in the jail without reason.

NO VISITORS

Since their arrest—shortly after the offence—they had been allowed no visitors and had "managed to use the phone twice through the John Howard Society," the accused said.

"You are permitted to use the telephone and obtain counsel. Maximum security has nothing to do with me. If it is a matter entirely for the police," Mr. Ostler said.

Chief John Blackstock later said the accused had been kept segregated, but were not denied privileges.

EXTRA JOB

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood gets the extra job of minister of commercial transport.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, who also held the transport portfolio, and Agriculture Minister Newton P. Steacy were defeated in the election on Sept. 12.

Mrs. Brown will be the only member of the cabinet who doesn't get $12,500 salary on top of her $5,000 MLA's indemnity. Ministers without portfolio are entitled only to expenses.

Premier Bennett said after the quartet was sworn into office that the appointments were not temporary.

FOOD EVERYONE

He commented that he had everyone "fooled" about his choices.

"I'm very happy to have a lady in the cabinet and especially Mrs. Brown," he said.

"And the minister of agriculture comes from one of the oldest families in the Interior, one of the original settlers."

"An additional post is being given to Vancouver Island," he added, "Mr. Westwood is very experienced; I'm sure he will be able to handle this very difficult portfolio."

The premier hinted of a new program or new legislation connecting labor and education.

He was asked if he did not think the two jobs a heavy load. "They have a lot in common," he said. "Wait and see."

Mr. Bennett said Mrs. Brown "operates in all departments."

"She will have full scope.

She has shown a great interest in everything that affects the home, children and their institutions.

She'll represent the government on many occasions. She'll be extremely busy."

HUMAN FACTOR

Mrs. Brown said she learned of the appointment only last week.

"I have a lot to learn," she admitted; but added, "The human factor will be my main effort."

She said problems of retarded children, paraplegics and correctional institutions will be among her chief concerns.

She said she feels a woman will be able to view such problems with a different eye.

She moves today into the office vacated by Mr. Wicks.

Born in Bellingham, Wash., Mrs. Brown was first elected to the legislature in 1956. She is also on the parks board in Vancouver.

She said she will commute from Vancouver at first, and may move to Victoria later.

Mr. Richter said, "I'll take over right away and start with both feet squarely on the ground." He was in his new office this morning.

He promised a hearing for farmers' problems. This was a source of conflict during Mr. Steacy's regime.

If there are any problems I won't hesitate to discuss them with the farmers institutes," said the new minister.

Asked if this meant he would allow their representatives to appear before the Legislature's agriculture committee, a practice halted by Mr. Steacy, he said: "It's a little premature."

Asked if he would take any action on the Milky Way Dairy carton problem in Saanich, Mr. Richter promised he will "look into the matter".

"We have problems, and they will have to be solved" was his summing-up of his new job.

Mr. Richter, 50, was born at Keremeos, where his family planned an 8,750-acre farm, which he managed for 21 years. He now has 2,000 acres, plus grazing lands, near Castown, with 250 head of beef cattle.

WICKS' RETIREMENT

He's a member of the British Columbia Federation of Agriculture and a past president of the British Columbia Beef Cattle Growers.

He was first elected in 1953 general election.

Mr. Peterson, 37, was born at Viking, Alta. A lawyer, he first won election in Vancouver Centre in 1956, and became education minister later that year.

His most recent contact with labor has been to initiate a provincial education program to combat unemployment.

Mr. Westwood, MLA for Nanaimo, is 51. First elected in 1956, he was briefly trade minister and then switched to recreation.

Mr. Wicks attended the Government House ceremony Monday afternoon, but Mr. Steacy did not.

The former labor minister, in a farewell statement to the press, said he has not yet got a new position.

"I shall retire from public life, at least temporarily," he added.

The more I hear the less I like the blanket motion. I don't think we should have peace at any price if the price is injustice to the former employees."

SAVE FACE

At the same time, Ald. J. L. W. McLeah said he was seeking more information about the situation which he did not have when council voted confidence in the commission.

"The more I hear the less I like the blanket motion. I don't think we should have peace at any price if the price is injustice to the former employees."

"I shall retire from public life, at least temporarily," he added.

ALBERTA TRAGEDY

25 Injured In Crash

LAMONT, Alta. (CP)—Sixteen high school students were killed and 25 injured today when a fast-moving Canadian National Railways freight train knifed through a school bus at a level-crossing near here.

The toll was announced officially by RCMP who said 42 persons were aboard the yellow school bus. Ten of the injured were reported in serious condition. One student escaped injury.

Driver Frank Butney, about 27, was among the survivors.

The students attended grades 10, 11 and 12 at the high school here. They had been picked up at their homes in the Chipman district, 10 miles south of here, and were due at classes at 9:15 a.m. MST.

Medical supplies and doctors were dispatched from Edmonton.

One report said the bus was travelling along the highway parallel to the track then made a right turn to cross the track, a quarter of a mile east of the town. The train hit the bus broadside.

The bus was within sight of the school as it turned over the crossing. Citizens said that the early-morning sun would have been in the eyes of the driver as he looked to his right down the track.

Officials said there should have been 44 children, plus the driver, aboard if all were present. A complete check had not been made.

School books, lunches, blood and seats were strewn along the track.

Acetylene torches were used.

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Why Haven't They Joined?

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

As a spokesman of his government told this reporter in London recently, Prime Minister Macmillan is deeply worried by the division of Europe between the two giant trading blocs, whose developing economic conflicts are likely to have grave political results.

Mr. Macmillan, doubtless the ablest statesman of the Western world, has good reason for worry.

So has Dr. Adenauer, chancellor of West Germany and great stone face of Europe, though he knows much less about economics than Mr. Macmillan. As Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and real economic boss of Germany, said in a statement already published here, the present division of Europe is "grotesque" and the union of the Six and the Seven essential.

Why, then, have Britain and its partner nations of the Seven declined to join the booming Common Market controlled by Germany and France? For three main reasons, all of them apparently intractable but in fact all negotiable:

Hutchison

In the first place, Britain refused to sign the Treaty of Rome which set up the Common Market of the Six, because this instrument, in its preamble, looked forward hopefully (perhaps unrealistic).

Move Announced As Talks Fail

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said today the federal government will bring down legislation to avert a nation-wide rail strike scheduled to start Saturday.

Diefenbaker made the announcement to newsmen shortly after the collapse of top-level talks between labor, management and a cabinet committee.

The prime minister did not reveal details of the legislation to be brought down to prevent the strike. He said details would be known when the legislation is introduced, probably Wednesday afternoon.

The government has frozen freight rates until the Royal Commission report has been submitted, leading the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways to claim they do not have the available revenue to pay a 14-cent an hour wage increase recommended by a conciliation board.

NO PROGRESS

The two sides met between 11 a.m. and 12:40 and resumed after a brief recess.

Frank Hall, union spokesman, said "none whatsoever" when asked if progress had been made at the morning session. He also denied reports that he and his union representatives planned to walk out of the meeting.

"I don't know whether you can say we made progress or not," said Canadian Pacific Railway President N. A. Crump.

"It's hard to tell in these negotiations what progress you're making," Labor Minister Michael Starr said.

The unions have refused to postpone strike action until spring because they say negotiations in the next round of contract talks with the railroads will have started by then.

A conciliation board has recommended a 14-cent an hour wage increase spread over the two-year period starting Jan. 1, 1960.

Kidnap Suspect Nabbed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation converged on a startled Frank Marrone at a Los Angeles intersection early today and arrested him in the kidnapping, a week ago of wealthy sportsman Anthony Alessio.

The FBI said Marrone, 31, a convicted murderer with a long police record, was unarmed and offered no resistance.

The agents said Marrone driving his own 1953 automobile carried currency identified as part of the $200,000 ransom paid by the Alessio family to obtain his release.

Alessio, 41, abducted from in front of his fashionable San Diego home last Tuesday, was found unharmed later in a San Diego motel. He is executive director of the Caliente race track in Baja, California. The track is believed to be owned by the Alessio family.

MONEY RECOVERED

A widespread search for Marrone started after the FBI arrested his wife, Selma, 25, and another couple in Hollywood last Friday. Agents recovered $77,900 of the ransom money at that time.

Don Keller, San Diego County district attorney, said Monday night he planned to file formal kidnap charges against the three today. The other two are James R. Gorman, 29, identified as an escaped convict, also wanted for a $13,000 Huntington Park, Calif., market robbery; and Gorman's wife, Ruby, 30.

Marrone has been free on bond from a 1959 murder conviction in Alaska.

In Washington the FBI said the cash found on Marrone came to $4,593, leaving more than $100,000 of the ransom still missing.

Agents were searching for more of the money in areas where Marrone was known to have been in the last few days.

30-MINUTE SERVICE

Helicopter Link in Year

By GORDON BELL, Times Business Editor

A downtown-to-downtown Victoria-Vancouver helicopter service will begin late next year, Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. announced today.

The company plans to raise $3,000,000 early next year for three fully-instrumented, all-weather helicopters, president Glenn W. MacPherson said.

The fare will be $11 one way or perhaps more," said Mr. MacPherson.

Either Boeing Vertol 107s or Sikorsky S-61s, both 25-28 passenger craft, will be used.

The inter-city service would be a 30-minute run on a schedule "equal to or better" than that provided by Trans-Canada Airlines.

Landing facilities in Victoria would be no problem, the Okanagan president said. While he would prefer a ground landing area at Victoria there are several persons interested in building a combined parking and heliport facilities.
